BIOGRAPHY

Steve D'Angelo is a composer, producer and multi-instrumentalist with deep roots in the Toronto music scene for over 30 years. He has collaborated with such renowned artists such as: Dr. John, Taj Mahal, LadySmith Black Mambazo, and Canadian legends: Doug Riley, Guido Basso, and Robi Botos.

His musical range has allowed him to incorporate musical genres with ease providing scores and themes ranging from news to documentaries to feature film to children's animation. Most recent projects include Stolen Baby: The Murder Of Heidi Broussard (Prime), Superbuns (Peacock), Carmen Sandiego (Netflix), The National (CBC) and If I should Go Missing (MarVista). Steve has been nominated twice for an Emmy and won once. He has also received two Annie nominations and two SOCAN awards.

Lorenzo Castelli is a composer, producer, and multi-instrumentalist. His music can be heard on several animated series for Netflix, CBC, PBS, BBC and more. His versatile composing style allows for a wide range of work spanning from network news broadcasts to independent films to television series. His more recent projects include LEGO City: No Limits (LEGO Channel), Dino Ranch (CBC), Molly of Denali (PBS) and Dylan's Playtime Adventure (BBC). Lorenzo holds a SOCAN award and an Annie Award nomination for Best Music in an Animated Series for his work on Carmen Sandiego (Netflix).

Over the past 15 years, Steve D'Angelo and Lorenzo Castelli have become leading names in Canadian television music, providing theme songs, underscores, and other original music for over 70 television programs. From network news broadcasts, such as CBC's The National and The Fifth Estate, to children's shows for CBC, PBS, and Netflix, to feature films for MarVista. Steve and Lorenzo's diverse music catalogue can be heard all over the world. In addition, the duo holds an Emmy Award, two Emmy Nominations, two Annie Award nominations and two SOCAN awards.
