BIOGRAPHY

Steph Copeland is a Toronto based screen composer known for her work in horror and sci-fi features, series and commercials as well as being an accomplished pop vocalist and music producer.

Copeland began her music career as a classically trained vocalist and producer lending her talents to the electro/pop group Perilelle. She toured parts of North America and released 6 albums with Perilelle before releasing her solo debut effort Public Panic which resulted in a signing with a NY based publisher MLMG where she is a writer/producer for pop and electronic artists in addition to her own material.

In 2012, Copeland made her break into film & television when her music caught the ear of Toronto's Breakthrough Entertainment who were looking a unique sound for their high-tech horror feature Antisocial. She has since scored over 50 feature films for MGM+, Paramount+, IeveFilm, Lifetime and Hallmark. Her pop music has appeared in everything from L.A.'s Finest to animated series Mysticons.

In addition to composing for film and TV, Steph took on the role of music director in 2018, producing and conducting an all-female ensemble orchestra in performances opening the 2018 SOCAN Awards with Brett Kissell as well as the 2018 TIFF Gala with Sarah Slean, Stacey Kay and The Tenors. Copeland has given dozens of films and television scoring lectures and workshops to up and coming composers and was featured in SOCAN's FOR THE RECORD commercial that debuted at the 2019 Juno Awards.

Steph just received her 3rd and 4th Canadian Screen Award nominations. She has 9 other Canadian Screen Music Award nominations and 6 other Canadian Screen Music Award wins. She was recently shortlisted to Billboard Canada's 2026 Female Composer of the Year award.
